COVERAGE REVIEW MEMORANDUM

Borrower Taylor Morgan; property 48 Redwood Place, Harborfield; loan HCL-48290. Review date August 28, 2026; preparer Riley Brooks. Compared the fictional binder DEMO-HO-48290 with the lender's requested dwelling evidence. Dwelling limit $650,000, deductible $2,500, annual premium $1,680. The lender loss-payee/mortgagee entry identifies Harbor Community Lending; coverage is separate from the purchase price.

FLOOD AND OPTIONAL-PERIL COMPARISON

The fictional location screen in NHD-48290-0824 indicates no special flood hazard area. No actual FEMA panel, elevation certificate, or lender standard determination is reproduced. No documented special flood-insurance condition appears in the supplied lender record. Standard homeowners coverage excludes flood in this illustration. Optional flood and earthquake quotations: not requested in the retained correspondence; absence of a lender condition is not an assurance against those losses.

CONDITIONS AND LIMITATIONS

Coverage descriptions are subject to the identified policy and endorsements. Replacement-cost terminology does not mean that every kind of loss or every item of property is covered. Deductibles apply to covered losses under the applicable section and may differ for a separately insured peril. Flood, earth movement, wear, neglect, and excluded business activities should not be assumed to be included merely because the building is insured. The agent has not made a flood-elevation survey or determined structural adequacy. Questions about a particular exposure should identify the location, intended use, and relevant endorsement so that the insurer can respond in writing.

BORROWER DISCUSSION RECORD

Discussed the difference between a lender minimum and the owner's chosen protection. A higher deductible reduces some premiums but changes the owner's retained loss. Personal-property limits and exclusions should be reviewed against the buyer's possessions and use. No representation was made that future renewal is guaranteed or that every weather-related loss is covered. The borrower acknowledgment below records receipt of this comparison, not a waiver of the ability to request additional coverage.

EVIDENCE SUPPLIED TO LENDER

Compare the named insured, location, effective date, mortgagee wording, dwelling limit, and deductible with the lender's request. A quotation is not a binder, and a premium calculation alone does not establish that payment has been received. A later policy may contain endorsements that were not reproduced in the evidence copy. Notify the issuing agent if possession, occupancy, construction activity, or closing date changes before the intended effective date. A requested correction shall identify the particular field being replaced rather than asking the settlement desk to infer a change from another attachment.

RENEWAL AND CLAIMS CORRESPONDENCE

Maintain an independent contact for the issuing agency and retain the acknowledgment of any change request. Do not send sensitive payment information through an unverified reply address. A claim should identify when the condition was first observed, photographs available, and steps taken to prevent additional damage; this worksheet does not decide whether a future claim will be paid. Estimated annual cost may change at renewal and is not a promise of continued availability. Optional coverages declined at application may be requested later subject to underwriting and the insurer's own effective-date requirements.
