

SELLER PROPERTY DISCLOSURE

Transaction 48291 · v1 · Page 1 of 2

SECTION A — EQUIPMENT RESPONSES

Subject 123 Main Street, Harborfield; seller Jamie Ellis; construction year reported 1988. The following seller responses describe installed items, not inspection certifications. Range/oven: present. Dishwasher: present. Water heater: present, garage location. Forced-air heat: present. Central cooling: present. Smoke and carbon-monoxide devices: reported present; buyer to verify operation. Pool/spa: no. Private well: no. Septic system: no. Leased solar equipment: no.

SECTION B — CONDITION RESPONSES

Roof leak known? No current leak reported. Past water entry? Yes — rear bedroom window, see continuation R-04. Foundation movement known? Not known. Plumbing repair during occupancy? Yes — kitchen faucet, R-09. Unpermitted room addition known? No. Boundary dispute known? No. Shared access agreement known? Not known beyond recorded matters. Insurance claim arising from R-04? No claim reported. Answers are seller statements rather than independent negative findings.

SELLER'S CONTINUATION — PRIOR WORK

During the first winter after purchase, wind-driven rain reached the interior sill of the rear bedroom window. A glazing contractor renewed the exterior seal in April 2021. Seller observed no recurrence during subsequent ordinary rain but did not open the wall cavity or obtain a mold assessment. In June 2023 a plumbing contractor replaced the kitchen faucet and flexible supply connectors; no relocation of a drain or supply line was included. The service invoices are identified in the repair index as R-04 and R-09. The seller does not possess drawings for the original construction and cannot identify concealed piping materials throughout the residence.

SECTION C — DELIVERY

Seller property disclosure is delivered for the identified property on August 24, 2026. Buyer acknowledgment is present. Seller supplied the continuation with service dates and identified the two invoices without warranting hidden conditions. The buyer receipt applies to this completed response set, not to an unseen inspection report. No disclosure response changes the contract price or requests a repair credit.

KNOWLEDGE LIMITS AND RECORDS DELIVERED

Responses concern the seller's actual recollection during occupancy and are not a representation that an unobserved condition cannot exist. A response of 'not known' is different from a negative test result. Roof surfaces, foundation cavities, underground lines, and areas behind stored belongings have not been opened for purposes of these responses. Service papers delivered with the packet are identified by date rather than adopted as the seller's independent expert opinion. Buyer may ask follow-up questions through the representatives and may employ qualified specialists within the investigation arrangements. Later knowledge of a material change shall be conveyed in a dated supplement identifying the earlier response affected.

RECEIPT AND ATTACHMENTS

The recipient is asked to compare the subject address on the cover with the property under contract before acknowledging receipt. Receipt does not signify that every question has been answered to the recipient's satisfaction or that any investigation right has been waived. Continuations referenced by a response form part of the delivered record; an unattached reference should be requested before relying on the response. Estimates of age or cost are identified as recollections unless supported by an invoice. Neither a checked response nor the absence of a comment determines insurability, permitted use, market value, or the condition of another component not addressed in that response.
